FOR NEXT GOVERNOR OF PENNSYLVANIA

ADJT. GEN. D. H. HASTINGS,

Subject to the decision of the Republican State Convention

EDITORIAL BRIEFS

THERE just now seems to be considerable agitation in base ball circles as to the formation of suitable and entirely satisfactory rules and regulations for the ensuing year.

THE new oil fields around Pittsburg a recreating almost as much excitement as when oil was first struck in Western Pennsylvania, people flocking their now by the hundreds.

ON the last day of October the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania had to its credit in the various depositeries where the monies of the State are kept, the comfortable balance of $1,192,942,34.

A VERY rich discovery of gold has been unearthed near Salisbury, N. C. One man in two hours' work is said to have taken out 2,000 pennyweights of pure gold. The customary rush on such events has already begun.

ONE single hour a day devoted to the reading of standard books would mean three hundred and sixty-five hours each year, or over thirty days. It must be a very busy man or woman who cannot devote this much time to intellectual culture.

SUNDAY, February 23, has been appointed Law and Order Sunday for 1890, and all pastors of churches are requested to address their congregations upon the duties of good citizenship and the importance to law as a safeguard to free institutions.

THE gift of $1,800 made by the Jr. O U A M to the Johnstown public schools, which suffered so grievously in their buildings and their resources through the flood, is both wise and generous. The appeal for further aid ought to meet with speedy response.

BY an unalterable law of nature, those who in youth are impudent, insolent and ungrateful to parents have the same measure of impudence, insolence and ingratitude measured out to them when they become old. The young man who is not tender and respectful to his parents is simply sowing the seed, and the day will come when he will reap the whirlwind.

WHEN a pretended newspaper man will enter a field like the stricken Conemaugh valley and misrepresent and purposely misstate things as it is evident the Associated Press correspondent at that place done, it is time to kick him out of the profession with as much of mingled pity and contempt as a man would kick a cross dog from an innocent lamb.

THE scheme to effect confederation between the Knights of Labor and the farmers of the country is a beautiful one on paper, but scarcely feasible. The Knights of Labor are in favor of eight hours for a day's labor; the farmers generally support a day twice as long. The Knights of Labor are interested in getting the necessaries of life at the lowest possible figure; the farmers are, naturally, in favor of the highest possible prices for their products.

MR. J H MYERS, of Rochester, N. Y, but who will be remembered by many as an old proprietor of the Bush House in this place, has invented a new machine which he calls "The Poor Man's American Voting Machine." Mr. Myers has displayed considerable ingenuity in the construction of his machine and from the little study we have given it we are inclined to think it might prove practicable and perhaps advantageous. It is an improvement over the Australian ballot system.

DISPATCHES on Saturday from Rio Janeiro, Brazil, South America, state that a revolution has broken out at that place, and that so far the Brazilian armies are in control. The government of Brazil has always been an Empire and the purpose of this revolution, which has been brewing for some time, is to form a Republic. The Ministery has resigned and a provisional government has been established, including Senors at Fouzia and Benjamin Constant. It is also rumored that Baron Ladoric, the Minister of Marine, has been killed, but this fact has not been officially authenticated.

THE MOST IMPORTANT DECISION

The case of the Pennsylvania Railroad vs. Duncan just passed upon by the Supreme Court of the United States would be an important one if it decided only the question of damages. It is of great interest, and both to railroad companies and to the public to know that the provision of the new Constitution which says, corporations invested with the privilege of taking private property for public use shall make just compensation for property taken, injured and destroyed by the construction or enlargement of their works, applies to a railroad company with a charter as old as the Pennsylvania, as well as those incorporated since 1883. As the law stands, while consequential damages can not be obtained for injuries to property caused by the operation of a railroad, they can be collected from most of the railroads of this State, if not all, for injuries caused by the construction or enlargement of their works.

The judgment in the Duncan case goes much further than this; however. It confirms the decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania that the Pennsylvania Railroad is not protected by the Dartmouth College decision on the inviolability of contracts affecting its charter so long as no injustice is done to the corporators. The constitutional amendment of 1857 says: "The Legislature shall have the power to alter, revoke or annul any charter of incorporation hereafter conferred by or under any special or general law whenever, in their opinion, it may be injurious to the citizens of the commonwealth; in such manner, however, that no injustice shall be done to the corporators." The same provision is found also in the act of May 3, 1855. Since the Pennsylvania Railroad has accepted additional privileges and amendments to its charter since the passage of the act of May 3, 1855, and the amendment of 1857, it has brought itself within the operation of their provisions. In deciding the case Judge Gordon said the act of 1855, and the constitutional amendment of 1857 must be taken to be as much a part of the Pennsylvania Railroad's charter as though written therein. This gave the Constitutional Convention and the Legislature alike power to increase the liability of the company if they saw fit. This was done by the Constitution of 1874 and it rendered the Pennsylvania Railroad Company liable to consequential damages caused by the construction or enlargement of its works without waiting for that corporation to formally agree to hold its charter subject to the provisions of the new Constitution.

The Supreme Court of the United States concurs in the decision of the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania. The full text of the opinion of the higher tribunal has not been published, but the abstracts indicate an entire harmony with the conclusions reached by our State court. There are probably very few corporations of any moment in the State organized before the passage of the act of May 3, 1855, which have not, by accepting the benefit of subsequent legislation, brought themselves within the scope of its provision and that of the constitutional amendment of 1856, under which their charters may be altered, revoked or annulled by legislation or change of the Constitution. It is not necessary for such corporations to accept the provisions of the new Constitution in order to be subject to its provisions. In the language of Judge Gordon, "It would be folly to call upon such to accept that concerning which they had no choice."

There is no hardship in this. Investors in corporate property are still protected by the inhibition placed upon the State against making any change in charters that will work injustice to the stockholders. A change in the law which makes a company liable for injuries caused by the construction of its work is, however, no injustice to the owners of a railroad, in the opinion of Common Pleas No. 2 of Philadelphia, the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania and the Supreme Court of the United States.

NELLIE BLY has beaten Jules Verne's imaginative flights often enough, and now she proposes to beat his record in fiction of making a voyage "Around the World in Eighty Days" by making the voyage in fact in seventy-five days. We wish her bon voyage!

CHILD LABOR IN THE STATE.

The law enacted by the last Legislature regulating the employment of children and women in mercantile and manufacturing establishments in this State is practically a dead letter. It is so by reason of the failure of that body to make an appropriation for the payment of the salary and expenses of inspectors provided for under the statute.

The Central Labor Union of Williamsport at a recent meeting adopted a resolution asking that the law be enforced, the basis of the request being the condition of several hundred children in that city. That the provisions of this law, especially those relating to the ages of children employed, and the limit of the hours of labor, should be strictly enforced there is no doubt, yet, until the next Legislature convenes and makes the necessary appropriation there can be no inspectors paid by the State to enforce the law.

There is nothing, however, to prevent the labor unions taking up the work themselves and in their own behalf. The law, so far as its provisions regarding child labor and the employment and safety of women in stores and factories are concerned, is in full force on the statute books. The lack of properly qualified officers to compel its recognition by employers of this state of labor is responsible for its non-observance, not only in Williamsport but all over the State. If the labor unions are in possession of information regarding violations of this act they can proceed immediately to compel compliance upon the part of those who persist in ignoring it. This is the one solution to the problem. If every member of every such organization will constitute himself an inspector for one day, with a knowledge of what the law demands, and exercise the zeal and discretion demanded of such an officer, the end of the present year will see the now disregarded law generally observed and respected all over the State.

REV. ALEM BRITTAIN.

It was a week Saturday since the venerable Alem Brittain, of the Central Pennsylvania conference of the Methodist Episcopal church, died at his home in Bloomsburg, Columbia county, but his prominence in the ministry as well as the fact that he was well known to many of the older persons among our readers, justify the facts given below at this late date.

Alem Brittain was born in Columbia county, September 17, 1809, and was in his 81st year at the time of his death. He entered the Baltimore conference of the Methodist Episcopal church in 1860. His first field of labor was Philipsburg circuit, embracing portions of Centre, Clearfield, Indiana and Elk counties.

Mr. Brittain was abundant in labors, continuing in the ministry until a few years ago, when he located on account of age. He was married in 1834 to Miss Jemima P. Goodfellow, of Clearfield, who, with five sons and one daughter, survives him. His last illness was very brief. He had been in his usual health until Saturday morning, when he complained of intense pain about his chest, and his death on the evening of that day was a great shock to his friends.

The funeral services were held in the Bloomsburg Methodist Episcopal church on last Wednesday. Brief addresses were delivered by Revs. G H Day, F B Riddle and E H Yocum. A large number of ministers attended. The remains were interred at Berwick.

THE verdict of a Philadelphia jury on Saturay last, finding L. Lum Smith, editor of the Agents' Herald, guilty of Anthony Comstock, agent of the New York society for the suppression of vice, was a righteous one. Mr. Smith printed in his paper a number of outrageous charges against Mr. Comstock, none of which he could prove when required to do so, and the result is that he will now suffer the penalty of his rashness. This verdict is against the license, not the liberty of the press, and its righteousness will be approved by all reputable journals. Mr. Comstock has for years been doing a noble work in the suppresion of vice and in bringing the corrupters of youth to justice, and he has naturally been the target for vindictive abuse of all whose nefarious business he injured, of all whom they influence, and, we regret to say, of some who know nothing of his work and have been beguiled by his enemies.

A NEW UNITED STATES.

The Brazilian revolution has terminated. The imperial government has been overthrown and a provincial government or Republic has been established and henceforth that territory will be known as the Republic of the United States of Brazil. A President and full complement of cabinet officers have been chosen and are already installed in their respective offices.

The change of government has been made practically without bloodshed, and with the slightest possible amount of disorder. After the first excitement caused by the declaration of the army and navy in favor of a republic perfect order was maintained. The new government has adopted the United States flag with Brazilian colors for the national emblem.

Brazil is a large country having an area of 3,219,000 square miles, or a quarter of a million square miles larger than the United States and Alaska combined; it is a rich country and if properly developed, under its new form of government, will soon take rank among the leading countries of the world. Its mineral productions are very rich and valuable, comprising gold, silver, iron, diamonds, topaze, and other precious stones. All matter of produce has been exported raw or in a crude state as the empire possesses very few or no manufactories.

The present crisis affected business and trade with that country but momentarily and, before many days, it is expected that exchange business, imports and exports will be better than for a long time. The trade of the United States with Brazil is quite large. For the past fiscal year there was imported to this country $60,000,000 in coffee, $16,000,000 in rubber, $6,000,000 in sugar, $2,000,000 in hides; and about one-half of the above amount came from Brazil. The new form of government is likely to prove advantageous to these United States.

THE Philadelphia Record, which is for Cleveland's renomination in 1892, remarks: "Governor Hill can afford to wait until his spurs have grown longer." Whereupon the New York Sun, which is an ardent champion of Governor Hill and an uncompromising opponent of Mr. Cleveland says: "Governor Hill, of course, can wait as well as any one; but how long is the democratic party going to wait for victory?" We are no prophet, but in our opinion the democratic party will "wait for victory" until it has got out of the clutches of the free traders who now control it; and even after it gets on the republican platform the people will doubtless see no good reason for entrusting it with power which it is incapable of using for the good of the republic.

MAIL matter from New York is now speeding across the continent to San Francisco at a rate that will break all previous records of traveling between those points. It left New York at 9 o'clock Thursday evening, arrived at Omaha at 5.30 on Saturday, and should reach San Francisco at 9.45 Tuesday morning, thus covering the distance between the two oceans in 112 hours. It will be the first to test the transcontinental fast mail system which is to bring the Eastern and Western parts of the country very much closer than they have ever been before, and its arrival on schedule time will be a great event in the history of the postal service of the country. It is another instance of the fact that no sooner does the Republican party get into power than immediately it begins to reform and improve.

—Dr. Edward McGlynn failed to arrive in Bellefonte to fill his engagement to lecture in the court house on Tuesday evening, and there were a great many disappointed ones who anticipated the pleasure of hearing him.

ALL NONSENSE.

Ever since there has been a relief fund for the benefit of the sufferers of the Conemaugh and West Branch valleys, and ever since there has been a Relief Commission appointed to properly adjust losses and claims and to distribute that fund newspapers all over the State, and a good many outside of the State have apparently deemed it a pleasant duty to criticise and villify the Governor of this Commonwealth and the other members of the Commission for their negligence in distributing the funds, and charged great unfairness in so far as distribution has been made.

Now, this is all nonsense. Governor Beaver and the other members of the Commission have done well by the people of the Conemaugh valley and it is now about time for the press to let up on blaming this, that and the other on those who have all along labored for the good of others. In the first place, half the reports that have been sent out from Johnstown regarding the unfair distribution and the intense feeling of indignation existing there are wholly untrue—have no foundation whatever, while the other half have been so magnified that it is no wonder the Commission was placed in a bad light.

In the second place, what man or body of men, who, placed under like circumstances, with 23,000 human souls, who had gone through one of the most terrible afflictions that ever this country saw, clamoring for assistance, money to be divided fairly between them, two and a half million of dollars, the contribution of a charitable world, to be so divided that the right and equitable share would go to those deserving it, could have done the work incumbent with such a distribution and not make any mistakes?

Governor Beaver and his Commission have done nobly; they have acted judiciously, wisely and well; and when the final distribution is completed, and the sober-thinking and reading public come to consider what has been done and how it has been done they can't help but admit that the stupendous work was wisely planned and well executed.

It would not have done to been to hasty. Some of the greatest mistakes ever made were purely the result of too much haste. And, with an undertaking such as the Relief Commission had in the distribution of the Relief Fund, careful study and deliberation were absolutely necessary, and this could only be with time. Therefore, again we say, it is time to quit crying blame on anybody but rather commend those who have had the work to do for the way they have done it.

PROFESSOR and would be Congressman, John L Sullivan, the champion "knocker" in athletic circles has at last been "knocked out" of the newspaper field, and that all because the editor of the Illustrated News desired him to spend two hours each week in the office of that paper, and, in addition, write one piece for publication every week. Hon. John may be able to handle his fists with undoubted ability but when it comes to the use of brains he can be knocked out in half a round, and that without striking below the belt.

—"Forgeman," of Howard, in writing to the Tyrone Daily Herald has the following good word to say of a firm well known in Bellefonte for their enterprise: "The enterprising firm of Jenkins' Bros. & Lingle, mean business and have meant it from the start. They certainly deserve much credit for the enterprise they exhibit, and for their efforts in trying to cause a "general shaking among the dry bones" in the Bald Eagle Valley." The above briefly describes the energy and activity that characterize every business enterprise that the Messrs. Jenkins and Lingle are in any way connected with.

—W. P. Furey, of Lock Haven, expects to move south, having accepted a passenger conductorship on the Philadelphia, New York and Norfolk railroad with a 95 mile run from Delmar, Delaware, to Prince Charles, Virginia. Forty-five miles of the road, he says, are as straight as straight can be, and he thinks it the prettiest line he ever saw. Mr. Furey was formerly a conductor on the Bald Eagle branch road.

—William M Poorman, son of Joseph Poorman, was killed Tuesday morning by Day Express just below the Bald Eagle bridge in Wayne township. He was a trackman and worked under foreman John Welsh.

Our Story Teller.

ALGERNON MCSTAB'S REVENGE.

"Ha! You refuse me, do you, Miss Hamtagg?"

The man who asked this question had passed the first flush of youth. He was no longer, properly speaking, a young man. Yet he was well preserved. He had not reached the age at which it seemed expedient for him to part his hair above his ear and plaster a thin layer thereof over the top of his head. He had thrown aside the walking stick of young manhood, but had not assumed the cane of middle age.

It is well to speak of these facts, for they are necessary to the full understanding of this painful history.

Moreover, they cost nothing extra.

"I do, Mr. McStab said the young lady, coldly."

"Then listen to me, Rachael Flickergy Hamtagg!" he hissed. "I swear you shall bitterly repent it!"

Wild whistled the bleak wind. Dismally moaned the huge elm tree that rasped and scratched itself against the cruel edges of the shingles on the cornice. Shrilly shrieked the weathercock on the barn roof for a drop of oil and grewsomely groaned Algernon Fitz-Thompson McStab as he stole forth in the dead of night, made his way cautiously by a circuitous route to the ancestral smokehouse in the back yard and went inside.

'I'll show her!' he muttered between his teeth.

From beneath his coat he drew a compact bundle of letters, cut the string, bound them together, struck a match, made a bonfire of the collection, and watched them slowly consume to ashes, while the crazy building shook as if with indignation and the wind sighed hoarsely, like one in sympathy with the wretched, but wrathful man.

He was burning the letters he had written in happier days to Rachael Hamtagg. She had returned them to him scornfully.

'This is so sudden,' said the widow, blushingly, and so unexpected. I—I thought your visits to our house were for the purpose of seeing my daughter.'

'She is too young,' replied the visitor decidedly. 'I told her last evening. We parted in a friendly spirit, but I gave her to understand as delicately as I could that I should not call to see her any more. This is sudden, it is true, but I trust none the less agreeable on that account. May I not venture to hope?'

'Why, sir, I—'

* * * * * * *

'And now, my dear,' he said at the end of a happy half hour, as he gently lifted her head from his shoulder, 'I should like to see your—or, perhaps I ought now to say our—daughter, to tell her of this happy event.'

'Shall I call her?'

'If you please, my dear.'

'Rachale,' said Algernon Fitz Thompson McStab, pleasantly, 'you will be glad to know, I dare say, that I am to be your father. That is all we wished to say to her; was it not my love? You may go, Rachael. Please close the door, my child, as you go out.'

A New Story of Lincoln.

Joseph Jefferson in the Century.

Springfield being the capital of Illinois it was determined to devote the entire season to the entertainment of the members of the Legislature. Having made money for several weeks previous to our arrival here the management resolved to hire a lot and build a theatre. This sounds like a large undertaking, and perhaps with their limited means it was a rash step. I fancy that my father rather shrunk from this bold enterprise, but the Senior partner (Mr. McKenzie) was made of sterner stuff, and his energy being quite equal to his ambition, the ground was broken and the temple erected.

The building of a theatre in those days did not require the amount of capital that it does now. Folding opera chairs were unknown. Gas was an occult mystery, not yet acknowledged as a fact by the unscientific world in the West; a second-class quality of sperm-oil was the height of any manager's ambition. The footlights of the best theatres in the Western country were composed of lamps set in a 'float' with the counter-weights. When a dark stage was required, or the lamps needed trimming or refilling, this mechanical contrivance was made to sink under the stage. I believe if the theatre or 'devil's workshop,' as it was sometimes called, had suddenly been illuminated with the same material now in use, its enemies would have declared that the light was furnished from the 'Old Boy's' private gasometer.

The new theatre, when completed, was about 90 feet deep and 40 feet wide. No attempt was made at ornamentation; and, as it was unpainted, the simple line of architecture upon which it was constructed gave it the appearance of a large dry-goods box with a roof. I do not think my father, or McKenzie, ever owned anything with a roof until now, so they were naturally proud of their possession.

In the midst of their rising fortunes a heavy blow fell upon them. A religious revival was in progress at the time, and the fathers of the Church not only launched forth against us in their sermons, but by some political maneuver got the city to pass a new law enjoining a heavy license against our 'unholy' calling; I forget the amount, but it was large enough to be prohibitory. Here was a terrible condition of affairs—all our available funds invested, the Legislature in session, the town full of people, and by a heavy license denied the privilege of opening a new theatre!

In the midst of their trouble a young lawyer called on the managers. He had heard of the injustice, and offered, if they would place the matter in his hands, to have the license taken off, declaring that he only desired to see fair play, and he would accept no fee whether he failed or succeeded. The case was brought up before the Council. The young lawyer began his harangue. He handled the subject with tact, skill and humor, tracing the history of the drama from the time when Thespis acted in a cart to the stage of to-day. He illustrated his speech with a number of anecdotes and kept the council in a roar of laughter; his good humor prevailed and the exorbitant tax was taken off.

This young lawyer was very popular in Springfield, and was honored and beloved by all who knew him, and, after the time of which I write, he held rather an important position in the Government of the United States. He now lies buried near Springfield under a monument commemorating his greatness and his virtues—and his name was Abraham Lincoln!

INTERESTING IN INSURANCE.

When James Shay, formerly a merchant at Port Jervis, N. Y., died at Canandaigua, in 1886, he held a policy of insurance on his life for $10,000, written by the National Benefit Society of 187 Broadway New York, a company doing business on the co-operattve or assessment plan. He had been a member of the society in good standing for two years, paying assessments and dues promptly, but finally permitted an assessment, of which he had due notice, to mature unpaid, thereby under his contract of insurance forfeiting his claim upon the society. It is usual, however, for companies of this character when a member is "in lapse," as it is termed, to send him a second notice, stating that if he will pay the overdue assessment within thirty days after the default he will be reinstated to full membership in the company, but with the strict proviso that the company shall not be liable to the delinquent or to any beneficiary named in the policy for any claim or benefits that may have accrued while he was in lapse. Shay received a second notice and paid up arrears under it within thirty days specified, but not till after he had been taken sick with a malady which proved fatal.

The policy was written for the benefit of Mrs. Shay, but when the widow asked payment the society declined to respond. Thereupon the widow brought suit to recover, her leading counsel being ex-Senator E. G. Lapham. The case came on for trial at the Ontario County Circuit Court in November last before Justice Mascomber and a jury.

The plaintiff's counsel argued that the effect of the thirty days' notice was to extend the period of insurance for that length of time without regard to the delinquent's state of health, and if payment of arrears was made within the specified time it would bind the society, even if made by the beneficiary after the delinquent's death. The society's counsel on the other hand, maintained that the delinquent could only obtain reinstatement under original conditions of membership as regards health and that the payment of arrears by the delinquent under a knowledge of the precarious and exceptional character of the risk he was imposing on the society was a transaction tainted by fraud which invalidated the policy.

The Court held that the society by issuing the thirty days' notice and accepting payment of arrears continued the policy in full force for the period fixed and directed the jury to find a verdict for the plaintiff for the $10,000 claimed and the interest and costs. An appeal from this ruling was taken to the general of the Fifth Judicial Department, which tribunal has now handed down a decision affirming the judgment of the lower Court.

REFLECTIONS OF AN OLD MAN WHO HAS FOUGHT INTEMPERANCE EOR MANY YEARS.

A number of people were sitting about a fountain in a park, says the Arkansaw Traveler. A venerable looking old man dipped up a cup of water, and going over to a bench, he sat down and placed the cup of water beside him, and then he took out a quart bottle and placed it beside the water.

'No one can accuse me of playing the traitor,' said the old man, addressing some one who stood near him. 'I have made hundreds of sacrifices and have fought like a hero, but I now knock under. The majority is against me, and I can do nothing but bow my head in submission; and I will begin to show my obedience to the popular will by proceeding to fill myself up with this liquer.'

He took a drink from the bottle and then took a swallow of water.

'Long and desperate fight,' he continued, wiping his mouth. 'I began it years ago, and not until to-day did I put it down.'

'What fight do you mean?' asked the man who stood near.

'The warfare against intemperance, sir.'

'Battling against your appetite?'

'No; battling against the appetites of other men, but I am now surrendering myself to the ravages of the majority.'

'What ravages of the majority? What do you mean?'

The old man took another drink from the bottle, wiped his mouth and thus replied:

'For years I have been a temperance lecturer. I have endured all sorts of weather in order to meet my appointments. I have practically given my life up to the work, but now what is my reward?'

'I don't know; what is it?'

'This, sir: I have just received the intelligence that Connecticut the State where I was born and reared, and where I was first persuaded to devote my life to reform, has given a majority of 25,000 votes against prohibition.'

He snuffed, wiped his eyes, tilted the bottle again, and continued: 'Twenty-five thousand majority against the work that I have hugged so close to my bosom. And now, sir, I am determined that the majority shan't get away with me. I am prepared to meet the majority on its own ground and take my medicine along with the rest. If my State wants me to get drunk, why, I've got nothing more to say. I'm going to fill myself up with the juice and then I'm going to wallow. Leave me I pray you, in uninterrupted debauchery."

Why Women Marry.

Atlanta Constitution,

There are all sorts of motives that actuate women to marry. For this act her reasons are more numerous and unique than for any other. The best and most excusable reason is being so much in love that she feels herself unable to live without the man she cares for. When this kind of affection assails her she might as well go and marry. Marrying is the only thing that will make her a useful and rational member of society.

When a girl marries in her second season the man may be pretty sure of her whole heart. It always seems a pity for a woman to fall in love so young, though. In marrying at nineteen she gives up four or five years of perfect freedom and unhampered pleasure. One can be married a long time, but four or five years are all that are socially accorded to young ladyhood. These years, with their freedom and opportunities for travel and reading, are not to be scorned. They often give the strength and experience upon which is formed the success of a lifetime. Every man and woman should belong entirely to himself for at least four years of his perfect physical and mental maturity. One should know one's strength and one's weaknesses before asserting the one or resisting the other against a fellow creature.

Then in marrying a young girl a man seems to take more risk and more responsibilities than he does in marrying one between 20 and 25. Between those ages a woman's social aims and worldly ambitions become decided. I remember seeing this sadly exemplified in a man who married a pretty village girl of 17 and took her to a city. She thought herself very much in love with him, and certainly he was a very handsome, lovable being. In five years she developed into a society butterfly, loving nothing but herself and the flatteries of men concerning her pretty looks. It seemed a pity that this little country girl hadn't had four years of single life in which to develop her tastes.

A certain financier is so absent-minded that he occasionally forgets to go to his lunch. His customary hour for this meal, when he remembers it, is two o'clock. The other day, quite absorbed in business, he worked steadily on until four o'clock, and then began to have a quite natural sense of emptiness. "Dear me," he said musingly, laying his hand on his waistcoat, "I wonder what I ate for lunch that disagreed with me!"

Surveyor—"We're going to run a train through your barn, farmer!" Farmer—"A thrain through moy barn, be jabbers, an, do you think oim goin' to git out of moy bed an' open that barn dure ivry toime a thrain cumes?"

Making Nickels and Pennies.

Philadelphia Inquirer.

The copper used in the manufacture of pennies is of the very best quality, and is from the Calumet and Hecla Spring Company on Lake Superior. The metal is shipped in bulk from the mines to the factories of Merchant & Co., in Connecticut.

There it is rolled and stamped out in circles of the requisite size. These circles are perfectly plain, with the exception of the raised or milled edge. At this stage the pieces intended for pennies are as bright as a gold piece, while those intended for nickels resemble highly-polished silver. In this condition they are delivered to the mint. Of course, it is absolutely necessary that all the pieces should be of uniform size and weight.

When these pieces reach the mint they are subjected to the finishing process, which consists in stamping them with the denomination, lettering and characters seen on the coins when they reach the public. To accomplish this great pressure is needed, as the pieces are not heated again after leaving the factory.

The amount of pressure required is simply enormous, considering the size of the pieces. The copper pennies require a pressure of ten tons avoirdupois, while with the nickel pieces it is necessary to put on a pressure of from twelve to fifteen tons.

He Did His Best.

From the Detroit Free Press.

In a stove store yesterday a man came rushing in and said to the proprietor:

"Have you gone into lying for a trade?"

"Oh, no."

"Well, you lied about that stove."

"Man on his way up there now to put it up. Rushed to death, you know. Hope you haven't suffered."

The next caller was a woman, who fastened a cold glare on the stove man and deliberately said:

"I'll never do a cent's worth of business with you again if I live here fifty years."

"Stovepipe is on the wagon there and ready to go up, ma'am. Woke up in the night to hope you wouldn't te put out."

The third caller was a boy, who stood in the door and called:

"Hey you! My father says he'd like to knock your head off."

"Oh, yes, you are Mr. Blane's son. Just sent a man up to your house with that damper ten minutes ago. Lost the sale of a stove to hurry him off."

"Are those fair samples of your callers?" was asked the dealer.

"Just about. I catch it about twenty times a day at this season of the year."

"And you never talk back."

"Never. I hustle and do the best I can, and if a kicker comes in I hold my peace or talk taffy. One word back talk would lose their trade. Everybody waits till the last minute for a stove or repairs, and then everybody comes with a rush. There comes a woman to blow me up about fixing a door to a stove. That door has been broken for five years, but it's decided to have it fixed. She'll be savage, but I'll mollify her some way and get that stove down. So long—my busy day."

"Can't you read to yourself?" asked a man of an old darkey, who was muttering over a newspaper. "Don't keer for dat sorter readin' nowhow. When I reads I wants ter hear what I'se readin' about."

"Veni, Vidi, Vici".

The Exposition is closed until October next. We saw it; it was great, being in its infancy, but we saw enough to convince ourselves of the fact that enterprise, such as displayed there, should not be passed by without some comment. But we still wonder why it was that only one whole-sale liquor house was so boldly represented. You could see its pyramid of bottles from any part of the great building. It was the prettiest display there. Max Klein has proved to the public that he wants to be seen. His "Silver Age" rye whiskey has now such a well earned reputation that he is proud of it and he wants every-body to see it. His goods are pure and reliable You can have his Silver Age at $1.50 per full quarts. His Guckenheimer, Finch, Overholt or Gibson at $1.00 per quart, or 6 quarts for $5.00. Producing The Same Effect.

The following from the Philadelphia Inquirer on Friday will be read with interest and should impress itself on the minds of all and especially of the citizens of the West Branch, Conemaugh and Juniata Valleys, considering the late drowning out that each of them received:

"An impressive lesson for the United States comes from South America, where no rain has fallen for a year and there is much suffering from want of water. Prof. Seely, the American geologist, who just made a tour of the country, says the same cause that ruined Egypt, Mesopotamia and India, once the most fertile countries in the world, is at work in South Africa. It is the destruction of the timber, and the same cause that turned those countries into deserts is producing the same effect in South Africa. It is at work in the United States, and we shall see destructive effects from it before many years."

ASTROLOGY FOR NOVEMBER.

Predictions of the Seers Zadkiel and Raphael.

Voice of the Stars.

The eleventh month of 1889 will usher in exciting events in Old England. The king of the Belgians is threatened with outside dangers. Sorrow is in store for Austria, and bloodshed is among the possibilities in India, according to Zadkiel, who prognosticates as follows:

This will be a critical month for Great Britain, for Saturn is in square aspect with the places of the sun and moon at the birth of a great personage, and Neptune is in transit over the same places. Moreover, at the new moon of the 23d inst,. Mars will be in ascendant and in square aspect with Jupiter. The affairs of state will not run smoothly, the dangerous classes will be riotous, and foreign affairs will be very entangled. The king of Belgians suffers from Saturn's transit over the place of the moon at his birth; tumults and external dangers menace him. Austria will have cause to lament the presence of both Mars and Uranus in her ruling sign (Libra). India will benefit by the presence of Jupiter in Capricornus; albeit, in the western parts and in Burmah, there is danger of a fanatical outbreak, at the latter part of this month, when Mars forms the square aspect with Jupiter. The conjunction of Venus with Uranus brings trouble either in love or domestic affairs on persons whose birthday anniversary falls on or near the 9th inst., or the 17th of October. Jupiter brings health and prosperity to those who were born when either the sun or the moon occupied the early degrees of Capricornus. The 15th is an unfortunte birthday, bringing either sickness or misfortune. The 21st is a more fortunate birthday. In Paris the anarchists resort to violent deeds.

According to the voice of the heavens there will be a big crop of suicides, earthquakes and explosions during November; disasters at sea will be entangled in serious complications. Says Raphael:

At the time of the new moon, on the 24th ultimo, the middle degrees of the celestial sign Aquarius will ascend, and the sun, moon, Herschel and Mercury will occupy the eighth house; Saturn, Mars and Venus will be in the seventh and Jupiter in the eleventh. The occidental position of Mars and Saturn is very unfavorable and will produce sudden changes in the electricity of the earth, resulting in shocks of earthquakes, colliery explosions and many terrible fatal accidents. There will also be many strange, sudden and peculiar deaths during the month, and the number of suicides will be above the average. Navigation will be unsafe, for sudden squalls and blasts of wind will occur. There will also be foreign or colonial troubles to contend with of a grave and serious nature. The average death rate this month will be largely in excess of the average.

The slow progress of Saturn in the sign Virgo will cause many troubles in dominion of the Sultan, loud and angry demands for reform will be heard, and I also judge that some insurrectionary movement will occur. On the 10th Mars enters the equinoctial sign Eibra, and will produce many fires and much crime in the country, murders, thefts greatly above the average. Jupiter still wends his way to Capricorn, benefiting the towns and countries ruled by that sign, more especially about the middle of the month, when Venus will be in sextile aspect.

Following are the admonitions for each day in the month:

1 Travel and remove and deal with females.

2 Buy, ask favors and push the business in the evening.

3 Sunday—keep quiet; a most unpropitious day.

4 Sell before 2 p. m. after which unpropitious.

A LITTLE COMEDY.

A YOUNG MAN WHO SPOKE ANGLO-ITALIAN TO GET FIVE CENIS.

I was one among a crowd who witnessed an interesting little comedy on the Bowery, near Grand street, yesterday. A young man called for five cents' worth of roasted chustnuts, which an obliging Italian vender emptied into his overcoat pocket. The young man, who happened to have his sweetheart with him, gave the merchant a dime, which he put in his pocket; but made no sign of returning change.

'I gave you a dime,' said the young man, 'and I want five cents change.'

The Italian shook his head and rubbed his hands together in a cool, indifferent sort of manner.

'I guess,' said the man, who is always ready with advice upon such occasions, 'the poor fellow does not understand English.'

The young man, who seemed to labor under the delusion that English with a final vowel affixed to each word was Italian, said:

'Gave you dimo, you no give me changee backo. Wantee five cento. Heari me O?'

'Great Heaven,' cried the Italian. 'What sort talk you say that is?'

'Oh you speak English, do you? Just hand over my five cents change.'

A hot argument followed, which was ended by the girl pulling the young man away and the crowd laughing. The Italian kept the dime.

Lock Haven's Condition Serious.

The sanitary and healthful condition of Lock Haven at the present, although not so bad as has been reported in dispatches from there, is yet serious enough to warrant prompt action and stringent measures being taken to thoroughly disinfect it and procure for it a more healthful condition than the state of affairs now existing.

The authorities are to be commended on the way they are acting in the matter. A special meeting of the City Council was held on Thursday night at which, after the transaction of important business relative to the purport of the meeting, the following resolution was adopted:

WHEREAS, It has come to the knowledge of the city authorities that there is a large amount of sickness in our midst resulting from the late flood, that the premises of a good many citizens are in a filthy condition, that some of their cellars remain uncleaned since the flood. Therefore,

Resolved, That all property owners and tenants are hereby notified that they are required to clean their gutters, alleys and cellars within twenty-four hours. That any person, or persons, refusing or neglecting to clean their gutters, cellars, alleys and premises or either of them, shall be liable to a fine of ten dollars for such neglent or refusal. To be enforced by suit in the name of the city, by warrant or summons, before any alderman of the city of Lock Haven.

Editor Joe Fury on a Dog Fight.

There was a dog fight yesterday afternoon, after the paper had gone to press, of course. We truly believe that those dogs knew that locals were scarce and that they purposely postponed their fight until after the paper went to press, just to aggravate the editor. There were three of the canines, but the battle was not such a great affair after all, notwithstanding the fact that some boys stood around and shouted "hiss! hiss!" There were two dogs on one, of course; there always are two cowards on one brave. But in this instance the cowards didn't make much, for the brave dog got off without injury after giving his assailants as much as they gave him.—Lock Haven Democrat.

Reporters Prayed For.

The following prayer offered by the chaplain of the Minnesota legislature is now going the rounds of the press:

"And now, dear Lord, bless the reporter, whose nimble pens catch our every word almost before it is uttered. Like Thyself, they are omnipotent. If we take the wings of the morning and fly to the uttermost parts of the earth they are there. They meet us in the jungles of Africa; they waylay us in the solitary canyons of Colorado, and when at length we find the latitude of the magnetic pole, behold they are there. May their light and goodness be equal to their power, and when the general assembly of heaven convenes let no reporter be excluded. Amen."

TO ADVERTISERS!

HOW TO GET THE MOST SERVICE FOR THE MONEY!

The Advertiser who would be willing to pay twenty-five cents for every family who could be "educated" up to the value of his goods would thus devote $3,000,000 to educate the 12,000,000 families which make up the 60,000,000 of the United States. This sum would do the business thoroughly in a year, for it is sufficient to pay for the insertion of a full column in every issue of every publication, and for resetting the matter, making it new in every issue of each separate publication. We will receive and execute the contract.

$5,000 One of the most successful Advertisers we ever had always ordered his advertisements in this way, "Get the best service you can for me for $5,000," leaving every detail to us. We were thus enabled to say to a Publisher, if you put this in at a large reduction from your rate it will be no criterion for further transactions. It was a surprise to find ourselves so often able to contract for the insertion of that particular advertisement at half rates, in papers which would not permit us to OFFER their columns at a penny's deviation from a printed schedule. The advertising rates of one New York paper are double those of another which has twice the circulation of the first. Similar discrepancies are not uncommon. The advertisement intrusted to us to be placed in accordance with our judgment often does double service for half the money. A dollar for twenty-five cents.

$1,000 If we are given authority to insert advertisements to a limited amount, in such mediums as ofier inducements which seem to us specially favorable, we shall not abuse the confidence reposed in us, and shall render statements of whatever is done (if anything) from day to day. When TRUSTED with the placing of an advertisement, we are put upon honor, and are bound in honor to give the best service possible for the money to be used.

$500 Leading Newspapers, especially the leading Agricultural Nawspapers, frequently issue large special editions (of twenty, fifty, a hundred, or even five hundred thousand copies,) and solicit advertisement orders from us on terms which would often be accepted by our patrons if there was time to invite attention to the matter; but the question must generally be decided before there would be time to write and receive a reply, and often the case cannot be fully stated within the limits of a letter.

$250 Prepare a small advertisement and send with check for $250, or any other sum. The practice of asking the Agent to name his papers in advance compels him to name such as are well known, otherwise there is reason to suspect that his judgment is biased;—and the best papers do not like to have their rates quoted below their schedule.

$100 The advertiser who sends his advertisements asking for the best service possible for one hundred dollars, will often get from five to fifty per cent more service for his money, than he would had he required us to tell him in advance exactly what service we would promise; for when an estimate has been given its plan and specifications must, in a general way at least, control the advertising to be done: It ties the Agent's hands and prevents his giving his patrons TO-DAY a better service than he could have promised yesterday, because yesterday the opportunity had not presented itself: to-morrow it may have passed! Some publications are used more economically on contracts for a single issue; in others insertion for a month may be had as cheaply as for a single week but in furnishing an estimate in advance, if the Agent attempts to go into details, his correspondence becomes voluminous and the advertiser confused.

$50. If you are in the habit of occasionally inserting a small advertisement in a few papers, investing a few dollars and carefully noting the result; we desire you to make trial of our Advertising Bureau, sending us the advertisement and the money, leaving the selection of the papers to us, and judging of the service rendered by results rather than by names, circulation claims or prices. To make up careful estimates calls for much work. It don't pay to make them indiscriminately for every applicant. If such estimates as are asked for were always given the Advertiser who wished to expend $50 would frequently find himself in possession of a scheme which it would cost $500 or possibly $5,000 to carry out.

$10. We devote all necessary care to placing small orders for Advertising:—even the smallest! Time is saved by sending check with the order. Often the Advertiser is not possessed of sufficient information on the subject to enable him to judge of the merits of an estimate for advertising, and he decides by the footings of the figures whether he will or will not do the work. Yet the estimate binds the Agent and makes it improper for him to make any variation in its specifications, however much his judgment may point to material changes which ought to be made. This is specially liable to be the case when the order comes a considerable time after the estimate was made.

HE SAYS THEY LIE.

Saloon Keeper Nieman Contradicts Witnesses for the Defense.

THEIR STORIES DISAGREE.

Serious Discrepancies in the Testimony Offered by the Suspects' Friends—An Officer with a Bad Memory—He Is a Member of Camp 20.

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—Jeremiah Hyland had scarcely got through telling the Cronin jury of his visit to Nieman's Ashland avenue saloon on the night of May 5, in company with O'Sullivan and James Hyland, when a young man stepped into the court room and looked him over from head to foot. The young man was Nieman, and he examined the witness as critically and cautiously as he did Kunze and Coughlin.

"That's not the man at all," he said emphatically. "And if it was," he added, "he hasn't told a word of truth."

Both the Hylands in their testimony declared that when they entered Nieman's saloon, between 9 and 10 o'clock, there was nobody present but Nieman himself.

Nieman says that, at the time they mention, more than twenty men were in the saloon. He has given the names of several of them to the state, and they will be called when the state opens its rebuttal proceedings.

A Policeman on the Stand.

Redmond McDonald, a policeman of the East Chicago Avenue station, was the first witness called in the morning. Examined by Mr. Forrest he testified that he went to Casey's funeral on the afternoon of May 4 in a buggy with Officer Richard McCormick. He went on duty as a patrolman at 7 o'clock that evening, his beat being on the west side of Clark street, and east side of Wells street from Oak street to Chicago avenue.

He remained on duty until 4 o'clock in the morning. He saw Dan Coughlin that night as the latter was going into the station, about 8:45 or 9 o'clock. Witness was on Wells street, and was just going to the patrol house.

Witness was a member of Camp 20.

Cross-examined by Mr. Hynes, witness said his number was 72—indicating that he was an old member.

A Poor Memory.

Witness could not remember what he did or where he went the day of the funeral, nor whom he saw at the Casey funeral. He did not go inside of the church, but staid in the buggy. Witness returned from the cemetery about 5 o'clock and went to Garrity's saloon. (Whalen was positive it was 6 o'clock.) He did not see Martin Burke at the funeral, nor did he see Dan Coughlin at Garrity's saloon.

Witness denied that he went to Dinan's livery stable Saturday night to ask if all the rigs were in. It was on his beat, but he didn't go, because he knew nothing about it. Coughlin was standing on the station steps when witness saw him, and he said "Good evening" to him, and Coughlin said the same. Witness knew Coughlin was suspected of complicity in the case, because he read it in the papers.

A NEW RAILROAD.

Almost Completed, and a New Enterprise Soon to be Started in Bellefonte.

All the while the numerous railroad booms were flying around Bellefonte so thick and fast arrangements were under consideration to build another, not only on paper but in reality, and to-day it can be announced that the last mentioned new railroad is now well under way—yes, nearing completion, and that when entirely completed it will just be the beginning of a new enterprise to be started in Bellefonte by a firm whose record as a business firm stands among the best in the State, and who will, when once in operation, make things hum in that immediate neighborhood.

Some time ago it was announced that Mr. A. G. Morris had purchased the Armor property at the eastern limit of Linn and Lamb streets, and would build kilns there to burn lime and also put up a crusher to crush stone, and, in addition, would quary stone for building purposes. To get at this location they would have to build a railroad from the Bald Eagle Valley up through Armor's Gap, a distance of perhaps three-quarters of a mile. On last Wednesday a call was made for men to work on this road and operations were at once begun. By Saturday night it was almost half completed and ere this week is over the iron horse will be hauling brick and other necessary supplies to the eastern part of Bellefonte and then, with all dispatch possible, will be erected kilns and all other necessary machinery; quarries will be opened up and it will only be a few weeks until that will be one of the busiest parts of this place. The town ought certainly welcome such enterprise

A RACE AROUND THE WORLD.

Triple Competitors Leave New York on Friday for a Thrilling Journey.

Jules Verne, the celebrated writer of fiction, portrayed a startling journey in his tour "Around the World in Eighty Days," but just now the entire reading world will await with anxious expectation the result of the race around the world which was begun last Friday when Miss Corcoran ("Nellie Bly"), of the New York World, and a man, name not known, an attache of the Herald, took passage on board the Augusta Victoria and sailed east, the former with the intention of making a journey around the world in seventy-five days, while the latter departed with instructions to beat Miss Bly on her own course. No expense to be spared on the trip but to make it as quick as possible.

The third competitor in the race is Miss Bisland, a creole born in New Orleans, but who has lately been engaged in newspaper work in New York. Miss Bisland makes the trip at the instance of John Walker, of the Cosmopolitan, and she will make the journey by going the opposite direction to that which the two former took, she having started overland for San Francisco on Friday evening. Mr. Walker, in talking of the affair says Miss Bisland will make the trip in seventy-two days.

The cost of the journey to each party will be near $10,000. Both young ladies travel unescorted. Miss Bly is about 30 years of age while Miss Bisland is but 22.

A Bride at Thirteen.

Washington Post.

Milton Boswell, 27 years old who has been courting a young lady 23 years old, has been married to his sweetheart's little 13-year old sister. About a year ago he fell in love with a Miss Tennyson of South Washington. Mr. Boswell popped the question one night last spring, and a day was set for the marriage. Boswell and Miss Tennyson had a dispute over some trifling matter, but it was thought that the matter was settled, as his visits became more and more frequent. There was, however, another attraction at the home of the Tennyson's for him, and that attraction was the 13-year-old sister. Boswell often left his office in the afternoon, when school was dismissed, and acted as escort to Miss Mabel, who was as deeply in love with Boswell as he was with her. The elder sister never suspected that she was being slowly but surely "cut out" as the school girls term it.

Boswell invested a portion of his salary in a brand new Prince Albert suit last Thursday night and then made his way to the home of the girl in South Washington. Young Mabel was at the gate waiting for him. Together they boarded a Seventh street car and went south as far as M street, where one of the Anacostia cars was standing. After about an hour and a half of painful suspense the car slowly moved off the turntable and went as far as Four-and-a-half and M streets, where it ran off the track.

In another hour they were on their way again chatting gayly and calling each other pet names, much to the amusement of the passengers in the car. At last Anacostia was reached, and going to the residence of Mr. John L. Poates the Rev. George Bowman was called in and the knot was tied. The newly made Mr. and Mrs. Boswell went to the home of the bride's parents, but Mr. Tennyson declined to receive them.

The Sons of America, a patriotic order, has brought suit against Father Reilly, a Catholic priest, to prevent him from occupying three rooms in a public school building with his parish school.

MR. JAMES SAYRE DEAD.

ONE OF BELLEFONTE'S OLDEST CITIZENS CALMLY PASSES AWAY.

Mr. James Sayre died at his residence on Water street Wednesday morning at 3 o'clock. Mr. Sayre has been very feeble for the past two years and about three weeks ago he was stricken with paralysis, since which time he has taken no nourishment of any kind save a little liquid now and then. His friends knew his recovery was doubtful and when at 3 o'clock that morning he breathed his last, the death summons, though sad, was not unlooked for.

Mr. Sayre was a native of New York, having been born in Horseheads, Chemung county, on the 28th day of February 1806, thus having attained the ripe age of almost 84 years. His early life and until the year 1865 was spent in the neighborhood of his birth. In 1865 he came to Bellefonte and since that time he has continued to make this place his home.

The early life of this aged gentleman, up to the time he removed from the place of his birth, is notable for the many and remarkable acts of Christian goodness with which it was characterized. Money, time and talents were earnestly devoted to faithful work in the Presbyterian church, and there was no stone left unturned or deed left undone that in any way could add to the upbuilding of the church of Christ, which was in truth the one purpose and aim of Mr. Sayre. After his removal to Bellefonte, although he has not been so actively engaged in church work, yet at all times he endeavored to do his Master's will, and has lived a consistent member of the church of his boyhood days.

Mr. Sayre leaves a wife and two sons, Harry of this place, and Morris, of Williamsport, and one daughter Carrie, wife of Mr. E. M. Sturtevant of Scranton, to mourn the loss of a kind and faithful husband and father.

During the almost 84 years of Mr. Sayre's life he always enjoyed the very best of health, never having had occasion, up till his last sickness, to require the service of a physician.

The best medical writers claim that the successful remedy for nasal catarrh must be non-irritating, easy of application, and one that will reach all the remote sores and ulcerated surfaces. The history of the efforts to treat catarrh during the past obliges us to admit that only one remedy has met these conditions, and that is Ely's Cream Balm. This pleasant remedy has mastered catarrh as nothing else has ever done, and both physicians and patients freely concede this fact. The more distressing symptoms yield to it.

ST. NICHOLAS.

The Century Co's Magazine for Young Folks. Enlarged and Printed in New Type.

SINCE 1873, when, under the editorial management of Mrs. Mary Mapes Dodge, the publication of St. Nicholas for Young Folks was begun, it has led all magazines for girls and boys. Nothing like it was known before, and to-day, as the Chicago Inter-Ocean recently said, "it is the model and juvenile magazine of the world." Through its pages the greatest writers of our time are speaking to the youth of America and England, and the best artists and engravers are training the eyes of the boys and girls to appreciate the highest in art. Nobody knows how many readers St. Nicholas has. In the third largest public library in America,—that in Indianapolis,—more than 3000 people read each month's number.

Since the first issue Mrs. Dodge has remained as editor. Early in its history other young people's magazines, "Our Young Folks," "The Little Corporal," "Riverside," etc., were consolidated with it, and its history has been one of growth from the first, Tennyson, Bryant, Longfellow, Whittier, Miss. Alcott, Mrs. Burnett, Charles Dudley Warner, W. D. Howells, and almost every well-known writer of our time have contributed to its Pages. There is only one way in which its conductors can make it better, and that is by making more of it, and so they announce that with the beginning of the seventeenth volume (November, 1889) St. Nicholas will be enlarged by the addition of eight, and sometimes sixteen, extra pages in each number. This enlargement is absolutely required to make room for the rich store of new material which has been secured for the benefit of St. Nicholas readers. The use of new and clearer type will be begun with the November number.

During the coming year there are to be four well-known American authors. Athletics and outdoor sports will be a feature (contributed by Walter Camp, of Yale, and others) and there will be stories of character and adventure, sketches of information and travel, outdoor papers, articles of special literary interes, suggestive talks on natural history, other scientificate subjects, and the march of events. Both the December and January numbers are to be holiday issues.

The price will be the same as heretofore, $3.00 a year, 25 cents a number, and all dealers and publishers (The Century Co., New York) take subscriptions. New subscribers shohld begin with November.

John Hanson, a mighty hunter, of Pocatello, Idaho, has a deer's horn with 42 prongs. He killed the buck on Middle Boise river one year ago.

D. LOTHROP COMPANY, BOSTON.

THEY WERE ALL THERE.

One Hour of Hard Work by Bellefonte Council on Monday Night.

Fifteen minutes before seven o'clock on Monday evening the chairman of the several committees of the council were assembled around the council table busy as bees signing bills. And promptly at 7 o'clock President F. B. Stover was in his chair and called the council to order. The minutes of previous meetings were read and approved. By the time the reading of the minutes was enacted every member of council was in his chair and the business of the evening was commenced by calling for the report of the various committees.

The street committee, through chairman Potter, reported that during the past two weeks considerable work had been done on the streets, but as yet no stone had been received to build the bridge at Hale's mill referred to at last meeting. Mr. Potter also reported that on last Saturday Mr. Charles McCafferty had built two fences across the western end of Harris street thereby entirely blockading all traffic to and from that thoroughfare and that those who reside on said street are asking for the removal of both fences.

Mr. Baum then made complaint to council regarding the condition of Pike alley which, he says, is such as can be termed a nuisance. The water off the roof of Crider's Exchange flows the entire length of said alley and makes it very disagreeable and council was asked to have the water turned into the sewer on Allegheny street. Street committee was instructed to investigate the matter with power to act.

A request was then made to council as coming from a dozen tax payers who reside on Quaker hill for a light to be placed up there at the eastern extremity of Spring street. Street committee was empowered to procure and put up a light at the proper place.

The water committee reported everything in first-class condition in the water department, there now being not one leaking hydrant or water-pipe inside the borough.

The street commissioner turned over to council receipt for $2.00 market fees collected within the past two weeks.

The Fire and Police and also nuisance committees had no reports to make.

The case of Andrew Harter was then brought before council. About a year ago Mr. Harter in driving around the corner by Reynolds' bank had a horse injure itself by stepping into a broken box placed there to protect a shut off in the waterpipe. Mr. Harter claimed $50 damage and threatened to bring suit for the amount, but through the borough solicitor, Mr. Dale, a compromise was made for $20. Council instructed the payment of that amount.

The solicitor's decision was then given in the McCafferty case which was to the effect that Mr. McCafferty had no right to fence up Harris street, as land once given in the way that was becomes a public highway and passes out of the control of the giver. Council then instructed the street commissioner to remove the fences.

There is some dispute regarding the fence on the Logan street front of the property belonging to the Catholic church being from two to three feet too far out on the street. This was referred to street committee for investigation with power to act.

Mr. Shoemaker requested the grade of Smith street that he may put down a pavement on that thoroughfare. Chairman of street committee instructed to give him the grade.

Mr. Gault reported that the Burgess had in his possession money enough and was in favor of getting caps, belts and clubs for the police, and desired council's sanction to do so. Council gave the necessary sanction and soon will the police appear in city regalia.

A nuisance was reported as existing in alley by Lyons' store, occasioned by waste water and filth from Garman's hotel being allowed to run down there. Referred to Nuisance committee with instructions to act and abate it.

An Unique Feature of the Pennsylvania Limited.

The Pennsylvania Limited, performing a daily service between New York and Chicago, needed but one feature to complete the perfection of its appointment. The men had their porter and barber, and now the ladies have their maid and hair-dresser. The introduction of the maids is as novel as it is a unique feature. It exists on no other regular train in the world, and the ladies who travel will appreciate it heartily. The maids are colored women, and there is one employed on each train. They are especially charged to look after the comfort of ladies, children and invalids. They are to assist the ladies in making their toilets, to dress their hair, and serve as a hand-maid to them in the fullest sense of the term. They will have an eye to the children, and have a care for invalids and ladies who may travel without a male escort. The convenience and comfort of having an attendant of one's own sex will be cordially appreciated by timid women and those who are inexperienced in travel. The Pennsylvania Railroad Company and the Pullman Palace Car Company dererve credit for their persistent efforts to enhance the comfort and pleasure of their patrons.

—"Miss Charlotte Hanlon is probably one of the very best singers Ireland has produced since Catherine Hayes, and her vocalization is so exceptionally good that her execution has often been compared most favorably, by critics, with several of the great singers. She is a Dublin lady, possessed not only of remarkable vocal powers, but of high artistic accomplishments. Not only has she distinguished herself at concerts in London, but at the last concert of the Dublin Musical Society she was chosen by the conductor of the Society (Mr. Joseph Robinson, a gentleman of very high standing among the musicians of Great Britain) to be associated with Edward Lloyd, now the first of British tenors in the solo parts of Beethoven's "Engedi." Miss Hanlon is one of the leading singers in the Irish National Concert company which will be in Bellefonte on Tuesday evening, November 26. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla 100 Doses One Dollar

The Chief Reason for the great success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is found in the article itself. It is merit that wins, and the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla actually accomplishes what is claimed for it, is what has given to this medicine a popularity and sale greater than that of any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier before the public.

Merit Wins

Final Decision of the Board of Directors of the Y. M. C. A.

On Monday night the Board of Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association held a meeting in the rooms on Allegheny street, the outcome of which has been the subject of much surmising on the part of all interested in the Y M C A, and especially those interested in athletics.

"Is there going to be a gymnasium ?" "When is the gymnasium going to be built ?" etc., are questions heard daily.

Monday night's meeting settled the question. The building committee, consisting of Messrs. A Lukenbach, D M Lieb and Wm. Zeller has been busy for some time procuring bids for the erection of the building. Several bids and estimates were submitted and, after some discussion, the contract for furnishing the material and putting up the building complete, according to specifications carefully examined and approved by the Board was awarded to one of Bellefonte's well known and practical builders.

The work will be commenced immediately so as to be completed within thirty days. A committee was appointed consisting of James R Hughes, G W Rees, Frank P Bassett, D M Lieb and J W Gephart, to have in charge the furnishing of the gymnasium and as soon as the building is finished it will be fitted up with all the modern apparatus for physical development, and no pains will be spared in making it a perfect gymnasium.

It is requested that all who have subscribed to the gymnasium fund hand the amount of their subscriptions to Mr. G W Rees, who is authorized by the Board to receive them, and that as soon as convenient, in order that the Board may meet their obligations promptly.

By order of the Board,
Frank P. Basset, Sec.

CASABIANCA.

THE boy stood on the burning deck,
Whence all but he had fled;
He saw amid the cargo's wreck
A box, and, calling, said:

"Say, father, say if I may sit Upon this box and wait?"
And then without his sire's permit,
Down on that box he sate.

"Say, father," once again he cried,
"My patience is clean gone!"
And but the booming shots replied,
And fast the flames rolled on.

Then came a burst of thunder-sound—
The boy, oh! where was he?
Upon the box, high did he bound,
Then floated on the sea.

For 'twas a box of IVORY SOAP,
And buoyantly it bore
That gallant child, who ne'er lost hope,
Safe to the sandy shore.

A WORD OF WARNING.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the 'Ivory';" they ARE NOT, but like all counterfeits, lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for "Ivory" Soap and insist upon getting it.

JOSEPH JEFFERSON.

"The Century Magazine" in 1889—Joseph Jefferson's Autobiography—Novels by Frank R. Stockton, Amelia E. Barr and others—A Capital Programme!

DURING 1890 The Century Magazine (whose recent successes have included the famous "War Papers," the Lincoln History and George Kennan's series on "Siberia and the Exile System") will publish the long looked-for Autobiography of Joseph Jefferson, whose "Rip van Winkle" has made his name a household word. No more interesting record of a life upon the stage conld be laid before the public. Mr. Jefferson is the fourth in a generation of actors, and, with his children and grandchildren, there are six generations of actors among the Jeffersons. His story of early days of the American stage, when, as a boy, traveling in his father's company, they would settle down for a season in a Western town, playing in their own extemporized theater,—the particulars of the creation of his famous "Rip van Winkle," how he acted "Ticket-of-Leave Man" before an audience of that class in Australia, etc.,—all this, enriched with illustrations and portraits of contemporary actors and actresses, and with anecdotes, will form one of the most delightful serials The Century has ever printed.

Amelia E. Barr, Frank R. Stockton, Mark Twain, H. H. Boyeson, and many other wellknown writers will furnish the ficxion for the new volume, which is to be unusually strong, including several novels, illustrated novelettes, and short stories. "The Women of the French Saloons" are to be described in a brilliant series of illustrated papers. The important discoveries made with the great Lick Telescope at Sanfrancisco (the largest telescope in the world) and the latest explorations relating to prehistoric America (including the famous Serpent Mound, of Ohio) are to be chronicled in The Century.

Prof. George P. Fisher of Yale University is to write a series on "The Nature and Method of Revelations," which will attract every Bible student. Bishop Potter of New York will be one of several prominent writers who are to contribute a series of "Present-day Papers" on living topics, and there will be art papers, timely articles, etc., etc., and the choicest pictures that the greatest artists and engraver can produce.

Every bookseller, postmaster, and subscription agent takes subscriptions to The Century ($4.00 a year), or remmittance may be made directly to the publishers, THE CENTURY Co., of New York. Begin new subscriptions with November (the first issue of the volume) and get Mark Twain's story, "A Connecticut Yankee in King Author's Court, in that number.

Painful Boils.

About three years ago I was troubled with poison in my blood, very irritating and painful boils breaking out all over my body. For two years I suffered with them, trying all sorts of remedies, and doctor's prescriptions without avail. Becoming disgusted with doctors, and medicines I had used up to this time, I concluded to try S S S and the result was far beyond my expectations. A few bottles left me in better health than I had been since childhood. I consider S S S the only medicine that will thoroughly purify poisoned blood.

Keep it as a Family Medicine.

Mr J J Bradley, writes from Harrison, Ga., under date of September 22, 1889. Swift's Specific (S S S) has been freely used by my family with the best and happiest results. A half dozen bottles entirely relieved my sister of a severe case of scrofula. My wife has frequently found her blood purified and her health improved by S S S. I also had a scrofulous affection that has been entirely cured by taking a few bottles of Swift's Specific (S S S.)

ONLY A RICH MAN.

Vanderbilt Buys a Cottage Out of His Pocket Money.

I was in a law office last Thursday morning where several were talking about rich men.

"Some men," remarked one, "do not know their own strength physically, and others again are not well acquainted with their mental power, but there are some rich men who absolutely do not know their own wealth so as to keep accurate trace of it all. I remember when I was in the railroad business I was Secretary to one of the high joints and rode over the country in a private car, an incident corroborating this: There were in the party two of the wealthiest men in New York—Colis P Huntington and George Bliss—the latter of the well-known firm of Morton, Bliss & Co. We were all at the dinner-table in Mr. Huntington's car and the topic of conversation was railroad securities. It finally drifted into Big Four stock, whose wings were then just beginning to grow and the stock to flutter about a little in the big trading-room of the Stock Exchange. Mr. Bliss turned to the railroad kind and said: "Let me see Huntington; you have some of that Big Four stock, haven't you ?"

"Mr. Huntington looked inquisitively at Bliss for a minute and then answered, with dashes between the words: "Yes—I—think—I—have—a—little—of that—stock—but—I—guess—not—much—a—million—or—a—million—and—a—half—perhaps.' "

"Speaking of wealth," said Frank Hamlin one of the group, and who, by the way, is a son of Hannibal Hamlin, 'I was in my brother's law office last summer at Ellsworth, Me., and drew up the papers in the little trade of Mr. Vanderbilt when he purchased his elegant cottage on Mount Desert, at Bar Harbor.

"The price to be paid for the cottage was $200,000, and the owner wanted his money within thirty days. "I will give you two notes," said Mr. Vanderbilt, 'for $100,000 each, both payable within the next thirty days; but I would rather the first one should not be drawn for at least fifteen days, as I am buying this cottage out of my pocket money and I do not wish to be cramped.' The papers were drawn up as the celebrated New Yorker wanted them and the deal was closed up.'

STEPHENS—DAYTON.

A Young Lady Well Known in Bellefonte Married in Williamsport.

From the Williamsport Gazette and Bulletin we copy the following account of the marriage of Miss Susie Dayton, a young lady well known by many people and who has frequently visited in Bellefonte:

One of the most pleasant events of the season took place Thursday evening at No. 427 West Fourth street, the residence of Mr. J. E. Dayton, one of Williamsport's most prominent merchants. It was the occasion of the marriage of William M. Stephens, Esq., a talented young member of the Lycoming County bar, to Miss Sue M. Dayton, the accomplished and only daughter of the above named gentleman.

The marriage ceremony took place at 8 o'clock, the officiating clergymen being Rev. E. W. Allen, of Clarence, New York, and Rev. H. H. Allen, of Holland Patent, New York. These gentlemen are brothers of Mrs. Dayton, the bride's mother, and officiated at her wedding twenty-seven years ago.

The wedding last evening was very simple, but beautiful. Misses Louise and May Sisson, two children, served as Flower Girls, and Messrs. Ira A. Dayton, brother of the bride, and Joseph G. Rhoads, were the ushers. The Stopper & Fiske Orchestra furnished excellent music, as they always do.

After the performance of the marriage ceremony a reception was held, the attendance being very large. Mr. and Mrs. Stephens took the midnight train for the East, for a wedding tour and on their return will occupy the fine mansion lately erected on West Fourth street by the groom.

The presents from friends of the newly married couple were many and of a costly character. Among the invited guests present on this occasion from outside the city, were: Mr. George A Dayton and wife, of Towanda; Mr. C F Dayton and wife, of Towanda; Mrs Frank Dayton, of Philadelphia; Miss Annie Pratt, of Almira, and Mrs. Dr. Rankin, of Muncy.

A Lady's Perfect Companion.

Painless Childbirth, a new book by Dr. John H Dye, one of New York's most skillful physicians, shows that pain is not necessary in Childbirth, but results from causes easily understood and overcome. It clearly proves that any woman may become a mother without suffering any pain whatever. It also tells how to overcome and prevent morning sickness, swelled limbs, and all other evils attending pregnancy. It is reliable and highly endorsed by physicians everywhere as the wife's true private companion. Cut this out; it will save you great pain, and possibly your life. Send two-cent stamp for descriptive circulars, testimonials, and confidential letter sent in sealed envelopes. Address FRANK THOMAS & Co., Publishers, Baltimore, Maryland.

Census Enumerators.

It is said that the appointment of the Census Supervisors and Enumerators will be made next month. In this State there are to be ten Supervisors. In this district, which is composed of the counties of Bradford, Cameron, Clinton, Centre, Clearfield, Elk, Lycoming, McKean, Potter, Sullivan and Tioga, the Supervisor is to be named by Senator Quay, according to a Washington correspondent's statement, and Edward C Deans, of Wellsboro, is likely to be the man, it is said. There are three or four other applicants, among whom is Hiram D Deming, also of Wellsboro, and it is reported from another source that if the appointment goes to Tioga county at all he stands a good chance of being the man. It is understood that the office is worth about $1,600 for about a year's work.

How to Avoid a Cold.

Curing a cold is not always easy. The great thing is to avoid it. An almost infallible preventative of a cold is a daily cold morning bath, but everyone cannot take this. There are some people who cannot endure the shock of a cold bath; and it certainly takes a strong constitution to get out of bed and take a cold bath in a cold room. A warm bath should only be taken at night, or when one can avoid exposure to the open air for an hour or two afterwards. A young friend of ours laid the foundation of a cold from which she never recovered by taking a warm bath and going out immediately after on a chill October day.

Another cause of colds is over clothing. If you are going to take a long driveo n a cold day, there is not much danger of this; but, in exercising, or walking, depend on the exercise to keep you warm and wear fewer wraps. It is a bad fashion to accustom one's self to a muffler. The least exposure without it is sure to be followed by a sore throat, and children, at least, seldom remember to don this superfluous garment with more than fitful regularity. If you are subject to colds never sit and toast yourself over the fire be it ever so tempting.

Remember that it is not in really cold weather that the severest colds are taken. It is during the treacherous days of a thaw, and during the autumn days, which open so brightly, with a warm sun shining until the middle of the afternoon when a chill, raw wind arises, which we never seem to learn to prepare for.

Cold feet is a serious reason for the colds of children from babies up. Babies are too young, and most children too thoughtless to know why they are uncomfortable, and so unless some wiser head orders an occasional toasting of the little feet, colds are the result. Always see that the children go to bed with warm feet.

The Chamber of Torture.

Is the apartment to which the unhappy sufferer from inflammatory rheumatism is confined. If, ere the crisis of pain is reached, that fine preventive, Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, is used by persons of a rheumatic tendency, much unnecessary suffering is avoided. Nervines, anodynes and sedatives, while having none but a specific effect, are yet very desirable at times. Yet can they produce no lasting effect upon rheumatism, because they have no power to eliminate from the blood the rheumatic virus. Hostetter's Stomach Bitters does this, and checks at the outset a disease which, if allowed to gain headway, it is next to impossible to dislodge or to do more than relieve. Rheumatism, it should be remembered, is a disease with a fatal tendency from its proneness to attack the heart. A resort to the Bitters should therefore, be prompt. Dyspepsia, kidney complaint, and malaria are relieved by it.

CONSUMPTION CURED

An old physician, retired from practice, having had placed in his hands by an East India missionary the formula of a simple vegetable remedy for Bronchitis, Catarrh, Asthma, and all Throat and Lung Affections, also a positive and radical cure for Nervous Debility and all Nervous Complaints, after having tested its wonderful curative powers in thousands of cases, has felt it his duty to make it known to his suffering fellows. Actuated by this motive and a desire to relieve human suffering, I will send free of charge, to all who desire it, this receipt, in German, French or English, with full directions for preparing and using. Sent by mail by addressing with stamp, naming this paper, W. A. NOYES, 149 Power's Block, Rochester, N. Y.

Subjects for Thought.

The coming winter's coal bill.

The man who holds your note for a few hundred and which is very near due.

Kind words are like grains of gold; the fewer they are the more precious they become.

The poor. Are there any in Bellefonte who need assistance ere the rigorous weather of winter sets in.

Might it not be possible for Bellefonte to secure the coming to this place of the terra cotta post manufactory that is now seeking a favorable location.

That Bellefonte has either a very healthful location or else is a very much favored place as so little sickness prevails here. This is something all should be thankful for.

That the merchants of Bellefonte are doing a good business but not half so large as they would do if they would advertise their wares in the DAILY NEWS.

That the firm of McCalmont & Co., can be rated one of the best enterprises this place can boast of. No stopping, suspension or strikes or delays are ever allowed to interfere with the works they control.

That the railroad booms that were flying around Bellefonte so thick and fast a few weeks ago have all burst and scattered to the wild winds of the earth for all that is now known about them. Couldn't some live and wide-awake newspaper start us another one.

That Thanksgiving Day is drawing nigh and the farmers and all other residents of Centre county have great reason to be thankful on that day. The crops in the county were very good and are now bringing a good price, while none of the very severe disasters with which other sections of this state were visited affected this county to a great extent.

Who Can Beat This?

Mr. William L Malin, superintendent of the telephone company in this place, went to York county on last Tuesday to hunt quail. He came home on the 9.32 train this morning and had all the quail he could carry. It was, in fact, the nicest string of quail brought to Bellefonte for many a day. There were fifty-four quail and three pheasants on the string when he displayed it at this office. Now, what hunter can beat this?

—A pound of gold is valued at $300; an ounce of it is just worth $18.75; a ton of gold would be $600,000; the Vanderbilt fortune if all converted into gold would weigh almost 500 tone which would be equal to twenty-five car loads of twenty tons each, or a full load for any engine on an ordinary road. Silver is worth just half as much as gold in relative quantity, a pound of silver being valued at $150.

Houserville on Deck.

WITH A FIRST CLASS BEAR STORY—MANY PERSONALS AND OTHER INTERESTING ITEMS.

A big black bear! On Thursday of last week five of Houserville's young braves, namely, Al Frazier, Grant Coble, Samuel Benner, John Lyle and William Benner, armed with guns, knives and revolvers started for the mountain in close proxmity to Lemont to hunt for fox, deer, bear or anything that came within shooting distance. It is not a very big mountain on which they climbed but, report has it, they saw a very large black bear. Now these young men are not cowards by any means; but fearless and brave even to recklessness. According as the story goes, it appears that Lyle, the youngest member of the party, was the only one to get a shot at him. The dog treed the bear. The dog is a very small one but, like the hunters, was chock full of courage and, clinging to the rear parts of Mr. Bear as he attempted to climb the tree held him there while Master John fired a load of fine shot into him; after which bruin, not wishing to be murdered in cold blood, jumped down off the tree and scampered away down the side of the mountain. The other members of the party, hearing the report of the gun, came running up but were not in time to get a shot at the bear. Samuel Benner, being a little in advance of the rest, saw his bearship running down the mountain and he, with gun in one hand and revolver in the other, started in hot pursuit, but the beast of the woods disappeared from view, going in the direction of Lemont, no doubt on the search of a doctor to dress and give his wounds the proper attention.

Our storekeeper, Mr. Emanuel Houser took his departure on Wednesday of last week for a two week's hunt in the Green Woods, Cameron county. Mr. Houser is an experienced hunter and we hope he will meet with success.

Mr. Samuel Boal moved into the house owned by Mrs. Ames, of State College.

The Houserville Woolen Mills are still being improved. Last week Mr. Keller had a new dye kettle erected in the dye house, Robert Jackson and Reuben Houser doing the mason work.

Mr. James Palmer and wife, of Potters Mills were recent visitors at the home of their son, R C Palmer, of this place.

Owing to the large demand for woolen goods Mr. Keller is compelled to keep his mill running day and night.

Oliver Hoy has moved into the house formerly occupied by Mr. Boal.

The party which took place on Tuesday evening of last week at the home of Mr. Etters and in commemoration of Mrs. Etters' birthday, was a grand success. The party was gotten up by the young folks of Lemont and many valuable and useful presents were contributed. Hon. Robert Jackson was a member of the party. SHORTY.

Thus far more than forty farmers' institutes have been arranged for throughout the State of Pennsylvania during the present fall and coming winter. These meetings have been found to be productive of much good and the small amount they take out of the State Treasury is money well spent.

The Pittsburg Times says: A C Isaccs and James Clarks Williams, of Pittsburg, in conjunction with a number of well-known Greensburg capitalists, will, as soon as a charter is obtained commence the construction of a large steel works at Greensburg. The product of these works will be a high grade of tool steel. The works will give employment to a large number of hands and will be of much benefit to this already rapidly growing manufacturing town.

—The Shamokin Dispatch pays Rev Charles Steck the following tribute on his first appearance in the pulpit in that place: Tall, straight as an arrow, with long white locks, intensely black eyes and a smooth shaven face, Rev. Charles Steck, the new Latheran pastor in this place, stepped on the train for Pottsville this morning. His features, though not so rounded, resemble those of the more famous though not more brilliant pulpit orator, Henry Ward Beecher. Kind, genial, pleasant, bright and sharp as steel he makes a favorable impression where ever he is known. Rev. Steck is possessed of considerable dramatic ability, and he talks with a fervor that carries his hearers with him. He is not new in the coal regions, having lived in Schuylkill county some years ago, where his brother Daniel also preached.

—By request of the proper authorities notice is hereby given to those parties who are in the habit of frequenting the rear of the lots on Thomas street at unseasonable hours of the night and for ill purposes, that they are all known and also are being watched, and if they do not now take warning the law will be enforced.

Houserville Happenings.

William Mulberger, of Lemont is erecting a large building for Mr. Bohm.

Emanuel Houser has gone to the Green Woods to shoot deer. Mr. Houser is next to Buffalo Bill on deer.

J. M. Coble, of Lemont, is the boss hog raiser. He has two which he thinks will tip the beam at 400 pounds each. Robert Jackson thinks it not worth while bragging about such small hogs; nothing less than ten or twelve hundred pound hogs has any attraction for him.

Boyd Cowher has pitched his tent from Bunker Hill to Houserville Woolen Mills.

Miss Ellie Dale and Mr. John Dale, Jr., of Houserville, paid Bellefonte a brief visit on the 5th instant.

W. G. Coble, the champion hunter of this place, took his dog and gun and made a trip to the top of Nittany mountain to hunt pheasants. The young hunter was greatly surprised and, probably, a little frightened too, to come in contact with a large bear. SULLIVAN.

Beaver's Thanksgiving Proclamation.

Governor Beaver has issued the following Thanksgiving Day proclamation:

"Realizing the abundant cause which the people of this Commonwealth have for joining in its proper observance, I, James A Beaver, Governor of the said Commonwealth, do hereby recommend to all our people the general observance of the day as designated. Not unmindful of the deep waters of affliction through which many parts of our Commonwealth have passed, we can rejoice with them in the constant and abundant stream of charity which has flowed from all parts of the world for the alleviation of their suffering and the mitigation, so far as such ministrations can avail, of their sorrow. Let the day be one of devout worship, of hallowed memories, of present cheer, of social amenities and of large hearted beneficence; and so shall we honor God and be a help and a blessing to our fellow men."

How Far a Cent will go.

When Mr. Alfred Shaw rolled out an 1889 penny to the length of about fifty inches he supposed he had reached the limit. He was surprised to read that a roller, named Williams, had succeeded in drawing one out to seventy and three-quarter inches. The other day Mr. Shaw tried again. He carefully prepared his 20x60 rollers, took a penny and forged it slightly by hand, and started in to beat the record. He has succeeded, and now has it glued to a broad white ribbon of the alloy of which the cent was made which measures eighty-four inches long, seven-eights of an inch wide and three ten thousandths of an inch in thickness. Mr. Williams' cent only measured three quarters of an inch wide.—Altoona Evening Independent.

That is just 83¼ inches further than we could ever make a cent go, and it is not because it has not been tried often enough either.

November.

We have entered upon the month of November, the time when we look forword to the approach of winter. According to a learned exchange November was by the old Saxons called bot monath or blood month, because of the general slaughter of cattle for winter provision. This was also known as martinmas beef. The charming Indian summer, which occurs about the middle of the month is but the precursor of reign of ice and snow. Soon the frosts will come, when, as Beecher has so beautifully expressed it, "in the night time thou liest down, and the messengers of winter deck thee with hoarfrosts for thy burial."

Appointments by the Governer.

HARRISBURG, November 13.—Governor Beaver to-day announced the appointment of William Livsey as state treasurer, to fill the unexpired term of the late William B Hart, and Thomas W Barlow as member of the board of charities in place of Colonel Francis Jordan, of Harrisburg, resigned.

Thanks.

—About now the turkey begins to look about him for a safe abiding place, the coon hunts for a hollow tree, the quail cowers under the bunch grass, and the red-head terrapin scratches deep into the mud. Thanksgiving Day is nigh.

A SAD OCCURRENCE,

Particulars Regarding the Accident Which Resulted in the Death of Frank Bartholomew.

On Monday last a gloom was cast over this community by the news of a horrible accident and the death of one of our most respected citizens, Mr. Frank Bartholomew, and another man named Frazier, being injured, by falling logs.

Mr. Bartholomew had been employed on J. C. Dale's lumber tract, in Greens valley, on the north side of Nittany Mountain, about four miles from here and only a short distance from Graham & Brown's saw mill, and was engaged at the time at a landing, in loading the logs upon trucks preparatory to taking them to the mill. The man Frazier, whose name and residence we failed to learn was assisting him.

The logs had been freshly pealed and in consequence were quite slippery. They had the load near completed and had placed the last log for the truck upon it, but it would not go into its place, and Mr. Bartholomew and Frazeir took their handspikes and climbing upon the truck, proceeded to adjust it. They had barely moved the log when the under ones began to slip away and roll off the truck. The men jumped and Frazier landed at a safe distance, but Mr. Bartholomew either slipped or sprang in the way of the falling logs and one fell across his abdomen pinning him down.

Several men working near by immediately came to his assistance and removed the heavy piece of timber, and picked Mr. Bartholomew up and placed him on a truck and took him to the logging camp. At first he did not seem to be seriously injured, but died about two hours after the accident, which took place about 11 o'clock in the morning, and he died about 1 p. m. At no time did he lose consciousness and talked freely with those around him as to his condition.

His remains were brought to this place in the evening, arriving about seven o'clock, and were taken to his home at the lower end of town, where quite a number of friends of the family had congregated.

The deceased was born and raised at or near Hublersburg, and lived there until about three years ago, when he removed to this place. He was a consistent member of the Presbyterian church. His remains were taken to Hublersburg, this morning, where interment was made, Rev. Wright, of Milesburg, officiating.

He leaves a widow and three little girls, and was a brother of W H Bartholomew at the station.—Centre Reporter.

Horrible Accident in Williamsport.

On Thursday morning John Henry, of Downingtown, Pa., while on his way to the Soldiers' and Sailors' Home at Erie, Pa., in trying to get off a car in Williamsport in some way became entangled and was thrown from the swift running train against a switch rod, a bolt of which penetrated the skull and laid it open. The man was carried to the side of the street and carefully laid down, where he rested for a while and then was conveyed to the undertaker's establishment where he died about 8 o'clock.

Why the man jumped from the train is, and always will remain a mystery. He boarded the train at Harrisburg and his conduct was restless all the way to Williamsport. It was snpposed that the man was under the influence of liquor.

Irish Concert.

A sacred concert was given at Music Hall, Sunday evening, by the Irish National Concert Company, which has but quite recently arrived in this country, and the members were greeted by a large audience. The artists were Miss Charlotte Hanlon, soprano; Miss Selina Hall-Gallagher, contralto; William Foxon, tenor; Wilfred Cunliffe, basso; Madame Emilie Grey, harp soloist; and John O'Rorke officiated as accompanist. Every number on the programme was rendered in a highly tasteful manner, and each member was generously applauded. It is hoped that the company will make this city a return visit.—Lynn Bee. This company will be in Bellefonte on Tuesday evening, November 26.

A Good Business.

The firm of Thomas R. Mann & Co., Mill Hall, are now running their axe manufactory to its full capacity. The goods this firm manufacture are first class in every particular, and have a national reputation. They commenced the manufacture of axes in Mill Hall in 1847, and the plant has been extended from year to year until it has reached its present capacity. The pay roll of the concern averages $1,500 a week the year through, and their help are contented and happy. Mr. Thomas R. Mann is a relative of Mr. J. Fearon Mann, who lives in this place and who manufactures the celebrated Mann's axe at Axe Mann.

Work of a Ruffian.

On Tuesday last a cowardly assault was made upon D A Overshine, ticket agent Pine Creek Railroad at Cammal. Charles Tittman, a man who is engaged in getting out prop timber in that section, entered the office while Mr. Overshine was at work, and with some kind of a bludgeon struck Overshine on the left side of the head near the temple, inflicting an ugly wound. It is expected that Tittman will come before Alderman Stead to-day. It is said that before the assault was made, Tittman said he would go into the office and smash Overshine's head.

Read and Reflect.

CENTRAL CITY, Nov. 14, 1889.

Editor of Daily News: Permit me, through the columns of your paper, to say to the people of Milesburg and vicinity that the application made to a word in my sale bills of household goods was wrongfully taken, and I am sorry that any one should have thought that I applied it to any citizen of Milesburg and vicinity, and I will therefore ask you to publish from an exact copy an extract from a communication dated June 25th, 1889, the next day after fire, but was omitted, perhaps, by an oversight of Editor:

"I arrived home about 1 o'clock to find my dwelling in ashes, my children scattered here and there, through the kindness of friends they were taken to their homes, and, just here, I desire to return the best and only thing we have—the sincere thanks of our family for the brave and noble work that was done in trying to save my household goods and other property. The citizens of Milesburg and Central City did brave work, some of them blistering their arms and faces, while the Bellefonte boys and others from a distance did as noble service as ever was done by any fire company. Our immediate neighbors have been very kind and hospitable to us in taking us into their homes."

The above is a word for word extract from a communication of six pages of a relation of my misfortunes and losses of property and the causes. The flood and fire caused heavy loss to me, but I lost much more heavily through dishonest dealers. JOHN F. POTTER.

Keeping Celery.

Some gardeners preserve their celery for winter by banking it up in the rows where it grew, throwing a covering on each side up to the tips. This is the least trouble but it may be frozen just at the time when it was the most needed for market. The better way is to store it in trenches, where it may be taken out at any time. A trench is dug in a dry place a foot wide and as deep as the plants are tall, the length being suited to the quantity to be stored. The celery is set in this in rows across the trench and setting the plants close to one another. As cold weather increases the celery is covered with leaves of marsh hay and finally with earth. The use of short boards over the litter will facilitate getting out the celery if there is a heavy fall of snow.

Building in Bellefonte.

The Watchman this morning devotes almost a column to giving briefly the amount of building, that has been done in Bellefonte during the past year, and where buildings erected are located. There is hardly a street in Bellefonte that has not been improved by the addition of either new buildings or extensive repairs to old ones. The sum of money expended in improvements as stated aggregates about $30,000, quite a good sum and yet a small amount for a wealthy and growing a town as Bellefonte is to devote to building and improving during one entire year.

"Hello! Hello!! Hello!!!"

"Well; what is it?"

"How is your mother, this morning?"

"Very much better; she had a real restful sleep last night; she is almost rid of her night-sweats, cough and nervousness, and is growing quite cheerful. How grateful we all are to you for that bottle of medicine."

"Don't speak of gratitude. What does the doctor say?"

"He says he never saw so wonderful a change in such a serious lung trouble. He still thinks we are giving his medicines. I don't like to tell him."

"That's right. He's an old friend, you know. I'm sure your mother will get well now; but you won't forget the name of the medicine, will you?"

"Never! Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery" are household words already, and it has come to stay. Do come and see what sunshine it has brought already, and let us thank you again for it."

"I will. Good bye."

The foregoing is a fair representation of a very common occurrence. "Golden Medical Discovery" has cured severe, lingering coughs and arrested Consumption, or Lung-scrofula, in thousands of cases after doctors have failed and other medicines have been tried and abandoned as useless. The "Discovery" is guaranteed to benefit or cure in every case, if taken in time and given a fair trial, or money will be refunded.

ELIXIR OF LIFE AND HEALTH.

is one that promotes digestion, improves the appetite, cleanses the liver, purifies the blood, and stimulates brain and nerves without injurious reaction, and one that may be taken alike by adult or infant. Profane compounds, made of vile rum or bad whiskey, sweetened and flavored, under the titles of bitters, tonics, &c, produce effects far worse than the disease for which they are taken.

Vinegar Bitters is a pure tonic, a nervine without being narcotic, a purifier without poison, a liver tonic without purging, and above all, a life-giving stimulant without alcohol. The only medicine with such powers in the world.

A GENUINE TEMPERANCE BEVERAGE,

far surpassing alcohol in any shape as a tonic, it might be called

since it stimulates, invigorates and regulates digestion, nutrition, secretion, excretion, respiration, and all the functions whereby life is maintained—we literally take in vitality in spoonsful.

It is too much to assert that the equal of Vinegar Bitters does not exist, and no counterpart or compound with similar virtues has ever been known.

CALIFORNIA,

if remarkable for nothing else, would be immortalized by the production of the medicinal fruits, roots and herbs of which this Bitters is composed. Many of them used by the Indians and the medical profession in the treatment of chills and fevers, rheumatism, catarrh, consumption, neuralgia, headaches, liver complaint, kidney disease, jaundice, gout, piles, boils, skin diseases, &c., &c., too numerous to mention, but easily understood when the action of the Bitters on the vital functions is remembered. A SENSATIONAL CORRESPONDENT.

A Newspaper Man Disgraces the Profession by Causing Trouble at Johnstown.

Special Correspondence of the DAILY NEWS.

JOHNSTOWN, PA., Nov. 16, 1889.

Many of the reports sent out from Johnstown, and which were given due consideration and supposed to be reliable as a correct description of the unsatisfactory state of affairs existing here in regard to the past, present and future distributions of the relief fund, have been traced to a newspaper correspondent who certainly could have had no other reason for sending out such reports other than to satisfy a desire to furnish news, and most of which have finally been proven to be false.

The man referred to is John E. Strayer, the Associated Press representative at this place, who is responsible for all reports sent out from Johnstown through that medium, and to whom the blame is laid of inciting people to hold indignation meetings on the mere pretense of not being justly dealt with. At these meetings resolutions condemning the Governor and the Relief Commission were always passed and these resolutions, it is now discovered, were always written or dictated by said Strayer.

During the past week numerous articles appeared in all the leading papers in regard to an indignation meeting that was to be held in Johnstown on Friday and at which members of the Commission had signified their intention of being in attendance to hear the complaints and make explanations. When the time for the meeting came fully five hundred of Johnstown's citizens were in attendance but not a member of the Commission was present. The meeting was opened by Strayer who, after a few preliminaries, presented a series of resolutions drawn up by himself and condemning the action of the Commission as unfair and unjust as well as too slow to be righteous. The gentleman then made a speech in which he expressed himself as follows:

"My heart bleeds for you poor people to-day when I have to announce that checks are still being paid out on the old basis, that the members of the Commission show no inclination to remedy this evil, and that perhaps all our efforts will prove fruitless. My heart is heavy as I speak these words, and these resolutions are introduced with the hope that they will yet do some good."

The resolutions were then adopted and a committee appointed to present them. Several speeches followed after which Strayer again spoke as follows regarding the absence of the commission:

"I never was so disappointed in my life as I am to-day, not to meet the Commissioners here, but I will neither eat, drink nor sleep until I have met them and pleaded with them. Yesterday Mr. Kremer said he would pay all the money out before we got a chance to do anything, but we will see to that." After a few short speeches by persons present Mr. Strayer continued: "You are classed as low-down people, and as kickers; can this sort of thing be termed anything else but robbery?"

While this meeting was being held four members of the Commission, wholly unconscious of what was going on, were assembled in a room on Vine street attending to the business of their appointment. After the citizens' meeting was over Strayer went to the house on Vine street where he knew all the time the Commission was in session, and presented his resolutions. Then a lively time ensued in which Strayer was denounced as presenting in his resolutions only a mass of lies, which was then and there so proven by the check and receipt books. Mr. Scott, of Pittsburg then said:

"Well, I am glad to at last find who is the devil who has circulated all these false reports and has led hundreds of people in this valley to believe that they were unjustly dealt with. The payment of checks shall not cease nor the business be interfered with to suit your whims, Mr. Strayer, but I will tell you what I will do, I have a little money of my own, you go ahead and get all the names you can and you can have five days for the work. If when you present your list we find that you are right in your statement of injustice being done or preference being shown, I will see that the necessary reparation is made in cash, but if we find that you have made misstatements the facts will be published in all the papers and you will personally be held accountable."

The general sentiment of the people here, so far as your correspondent could learn, is that of entire satisfaction with the way the Commission has dealt by them, unless it be a few who have allowed themselves to be influenced by unprincipled persons; and in my estimation through my knowledge of the situation, I think that Governor Beaver and the other members of the Commission are a badly misrepresented and maligned body of men, who, to the best of their ability, did their best to serve the best interests of the masses in this place and to deal by them as quickly as a just and fair distribution would admit.

As to Strayer, reports here this morning are to the effect that he will get his walking papers before the day is past. It will be a good thing for the people and perhaps in the future place them in a better light before the charitable public.

The Hopkins Trial.

During the trial of W. Seely Hopkins for the murder of his wife and mother-in-law, the DAILY NEWS will give the report of trial in full. The case will likely be called for trial on the Wednesday before Thanksgiving Day. It promises to be very interesting. The DAILY NEWS will be delivered or sent by mail, postage paid, to any address for ten cents for the week. Send in your order early so that you can have proper entry.

Never Called For.

For one week the DAILY NEWS flaunted in a most conspicuous place an offer of $100 reward for any one who could prove that a democrat voted the prohibition ticket. For just that same length of time it remained unclaimed or unasked for. Why? Simply because there could have been none who were entitled to claim it.

We've Dropped Him "Off the List."

A postal card recently received from a subscriber in Des Moines, Iowa, contained this startling information: "Stop my paper; I will not take another number from the post office." It is needless to say the paper was stopped. In a few days another card was received saying that if we would inquire of Mr. so and so why Mr. so and so would tell us why he, the subscriber, stopped his paper, (his right to do so had never been questioned.)

Well, we inquired of the gentleman referred to, simply through curiosity, and lo, and behold! a pile of manuscript sufficient, if the matter on it were in type, to fill two or three more columns of this paper, was shown to us with the assurance that if we would read it we would find out the reasons given.

We read it and, it must be admitted, that the writer of that letter had more idle time on his hands than the majority of business men have now a days. After a careful reading of the entire letter it was discovered that the only and entire reason that he wanted his paper stopped was simply because he "didn't want it any more". He was kind enough, however, to make the proviso that if it would "knock out" or "bust up" the new man he would renew again simply to keep the "machine a grinding." Under the circumstances it puts the "new man" in a bad box, as he does not wish to be "knocked out" neither does he care to pose as an object of charity, but if some other kind and benevolent person who would take the paper for itself, will kindly send us a year's subscription (price $1.50) it will relieve us greatly, will not decrease our subscription list, and will leave the Des Moines ex-subscriber free to act as he pleases. Now who will be the one to help us out of this dilemma?

To Correspondents.

This papers desires, will appreciate and give a consideration for all correspondence sent in by a regular contributor, and will give careful attention, as well, to all contributions received, but the right is reserved to use our own judgment as to what we can publish and what we can not. Contributions of a newsy character, on any subject of special or passing interest, personals or incidents of interest in any locality in the county, articles on scientific questions or relating to farming, or on any other question of interest to the reading public, will be gratefully received and be given space in this paper. But we will not publish communications that the main object of their existence is the venting of personal spite on some one; neither will we publish articles that contain matter of interest to no one in the county but the writer; silly balderdash, that would only tend to ridicule both writer and editor. If you have any news send it to us and see if we do not fully appreciate it.

This is Enterprise.

A VERY GOOD REASON.

Mr. Editor: You requested your republican friends to give their opinion of what caused our defeat in the recent election. Here it is in a nutshel: Nearly every American citizen wants an office, or wants some particular friends to have one. Of course they couldn't all get what they wanted and the only way they could get satisfaction was to defeat their own party.

In Memorium.

PRICE—Mrs. Susan Emily, wife of Mr. A. S. Price, of Port Matilda, died on Tuesday, November 5th, 1889, aged 61 years, 7 months and 8 days.

Death is sad only so far as the parting on earth is concerned. But, were it possible to take a view beyond the mystic vale of death, that dividing line between mortal life and life immortal, it perhaps would greatly lessen the pangs that death always leaves behind.

The subject of this sketch was the daughter of Clement and Sarah Matilda Beckwith, born in Bellefonte on the 28th of March 1828. Here she lived with her parents until the year 1842 when the family moved to Port Matilda where her parents resided until their death. In 1851 Miss Susan first met Mr. A. S Price and two years after, in 1853, they were married. The thirty-six years of their married life was spent in the Bald Eagle Valley in and around Port Matilda. Mrs. Price leaves a husband and seven children to mourn their loss.

Thirty-six years ago she became a member of the M. E. church and has ever since been especially known as an upright christian lady and a great worker in the Master's vineyard. There is great sympathy with the husband and children in the loss of such a good and faithful wife and mother but their loss is her gain and in the final hereafter there can be a reunion of that family far sweeter than the parting was sad.

Mr, Sturgis Haupt, whose father lives in Union county but who, himself, has been in Polk county, Minnesota, for the past five years, stopped in Bellefonte on his way home last Saturday. Mr. Haupt left his home in Polk county 500 miles beyond St. Paul on Thursday morning and arrived in this place on the Saturday morning train, making the trip in two days which was a remarkably quick trip. Mr. Haupt in speaking of farming in the west says that one man and team will farm 1200 acres of land in Minnesota with as much ease as a man will farm 100 in Pennsylvania. And as to raising wheat the yield in that country is as 5 to 1 with the yield here while the price is but one-third smaller, 60 cents a bushel there. Potatoes are worth in Minnesota twenty cents a bushel and the yield this summer was very large. As to corn that cereal cannot be raised there because of the short seasons. When Mr. Haupt left there, heavy overcoats and mufflers were in great demand, while the further east he came the milder the weather grew. Mr. H. will tarry at his old home in Union county during the winter but in the early spring will again journey to the west where he has considerable landed interest.

Why is a Newspaper Like a Pretty Girl?

To be perfect it must be the embodiment of many types; its forms are made up; it is chased though inclined to be giddy; it enjoys a good press, the more rapid the better; has a weakness for gossip; talks a good deal; it can stand some praise and is awfully proud of a new dress. It cannot be kept in a good humor without cash. Please pay up!—Exchange,

SHORTY.

Rain and High Water.

In some places it is said that the great amount of rain that fell during the past three days caused almost as high water and as much flood as the rain of May 31 last. Just around Bellefonte the water has not been quite so high neither has it been so high in the Bald Eagle although the amount of rainfall has been greater by about .03 inches than that of last Spring. No trains could reach this place over the Lemont railroad after yesterday morning, being blocked at Paddy's mountain. From all reports, however, it will only be the matter of a day's work to right things on that road.

AT AND BELOW LOCK HAVEN.

Reports from Mill Hall are to the effect that the water there on the Fishing Creek branch is higher than last June, the town being entirely overflowed. In Lock Haven there has been no flood only near the river which rose about six feet. The most serious report received was regarding the P. & E. railroad below Lock Haven and around Williamsport. Several bridges are said to have been swept away, and others rendered impassable by the high water.

AT CLEARFIELD AND TYRONE.

No reports of a serious nature were received from Clearfield. Yesterday evening there was a seven foot flood in the river there but nothing large was apprehended. At Tyrone the waters were high and the paper mill was closed on that account. No serious damage had been done late yesterday evening, but the railroad officials were apprehensive that some of the new track and bridges might be damaged. At this writing the condition for rain is still very threatening.
